COMMITTEES

All affiliated organizations are invited to nominate members to serve on the Washington State Labor Council's standing committees. These active, high-profile committees have developed national reputations. Nominees must be members of an affiliated local union. Committee members may be reappointed.

Being appointed to a WSLC standing committee is both an honor and an obligation. Members are expected to participate in committee meetings and programs. Committee members will have an opportunity to meet with members of other unions about issues of concern to organized labor and help develop policy recommendations for the WSLC.
