

Get ready to LEAD

Our workforce and our labor movement are made up of many different faces and we are strongest when we speak with one voice.

To rebuild our strength, the labor movement must embrace and reflect the diversity of our workforce and our membership. We must provide our members with the leadership skills to restore opportunity and justice at our workplaces and in society.

To this end, the Diversity Committee of the Washington State Labor Council and the Labor Education and Research Center of The Evergreen State College invite you to send rank-and-file and staff members of color to:
